

Throughout the fine and decorative art collections on display at Hearst Castle—the former estate of media magnate William Randolph Hearst—faces out of history, mythology, religion, nature, and imagination are depicted by artists from cultures all over the world.

Featuring over forty objects, Faces of Hearst Castle brings together recent scholarship and original photography to offer readers an unprecedented close-up view of select treasures at San Simeon. From ancient Egyptian goddesses to Art Deco-era dancers, from mosaic floors to gilded ceilings, the collection houses a multitude of faces in myriad forms and varied materials.

Now an historic house museum maintained by California State Parks, Hearst San Simeon State Historical Monument is open year-round for tours of the buildings and gardens.
